Guest Speaker this week: Rotarian Marilyn Briggs - Fiji

Last week Dr Paul Hanson was our guest speaker, and his topic was Modern General Practice. Dr. Hanson has postgraduate training in a wide variety of presentations to general practice. He is competent in the full breadth of medical problems. He has an interest in training medical students and young doctors. He keeps fit by walking and riding a push bike.

He spoke briefly on the following, Cervical Cancer, Prostate Cancer, Obesity (Aust is the 3rd most obese country in the world), vaccinations (covering polio, small pox, whooping cough etc), and most especially meningococcal.

The talk was also enjoyed by the 7 visiting members of the Rotary Club of Kings Meadows.

Notes from last meeting

Flight Centre Foundation raises money for several different charities and holds several fundraising events throughout the year.

Flight Centre Foundation is teaming up with Cambodian Children's Trust (CCT) to help raise funds and awareness for the children in corrupt orphanages. The percentage of children with alive parent/s in an orphanage is staggering. CCT is raising money to give back to the families rather than the orphanages so the families can afford to raise their children themselves.

We will be going over in a group of 15 Flight Centre employees and will be spending our days in workshops with CCT and getting to know the families that have been a part of the program. We will be raising the awareness in the communities by a 5km fun run through the village. We have a fundraising goal of $1000 per person and all the money will be going to the families in need.

Message from Community Service Director Kim Biggelaar

We have been asked to hold a BBQ for YMCA Kings Meadows on Saturday evening the 28th October from 6 til 8.30.

The board have agreed that we can do this and I will require assistance for this event.

The event is called
Halloween Glow In the Dark
Family Disco and Games
Date 28th October
Time 6pm til 8.30pm

They are expecting between 80 to 100 people, I am happy to organise the food but I need at least 2 members to help cook at the event.

If you require any further information and would be willing to help please talk or call me.

Kim

would grow into a global phenomenon (his work was profiled in the March 2014 issue of The Rotarian). Now Bol and his not-for-profit group based in Hudson, Wisconsin, USA, have launched Action Book Club, a program that encourages readers to pick a book, discuss it, then do positive works inspired by their reading.

“Everyone has read a book that has inspired or changed them,” says Margret Aldrich, manager of the Action Book Club program at Little Free Library. “We wanted to give wings to that feeling and turn it into real action.” The Action Book Club site has a recommended books list – although clubs can read whatever they like – as well as discussion questions and service project ideas.

The Rotary Club of Hudson, where Bol is a member, immediately signed up. “I think of Action Book Clubs as ‘read, talk, and then do,’” explains Past President Kari Rambo, who’s heading the club’s effort with President Brian Hinz. “For us as Rotarians, that’s what we do.”

The 40-member club is reading “All the Things We Never Knew: Chasing the Chaos of Mental Illness,” by Sheila Hamilton. Rambo and Hinz chose the book in response to their community’s recent focus on recognizing and destigmatising mental illness.

The club’s action projects include giving presentations on mental health to alert the community that people shouldn’t be afraid to discuss depression, anxiety, and other health conditions. “We’ll also be placing four Little Free Libraries in local parks and stocking them with books on mental health, including the one we’re reading,” Hinz explains.

“Rotary has always been about serving the community and making it better by funding things that act as seeds to produce change,” adds Bol. “I think Little Free Library and Action Book Clubs are a natural fit for the Rotarian approach to the world.”

The Wine Auction

2nd November

next week

This is a great club fun event conducted by Craig Mitchell plus a willing helper and they always manage to raise a good amount of money for our Club.

Don't forget those extra bottles of wine in your cupboards or cellars to donate for the evening.

Rotary members find good deeds in good reads

When Rotarian Todd Bol built the first “Little Free Library” – a small, decorated wood box mounted on a pole that allows anyone walking by to take a book to read or add a book to share – he didn’t imagine it

A report from our intrepid Henk Kortekaas.

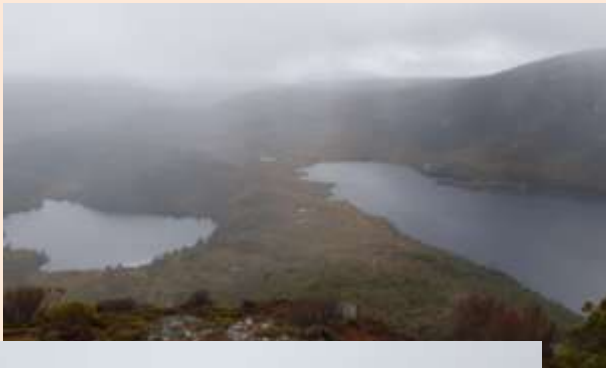

The Mountain climbers were:

Lance Pfeffer, Lachlan Schneider, Inaki Sanchez, Shannon Evans, Bjork Hanson and Henk Kortekaas.

The climb was organised by Lance and Henk for a clear and sunny Saturday in October. This really was the case when we left Launceston at 7 am on Saturday, October 21st. During the trip on the very winding road to the Cethana Dam, Inaki got car sick and after changing seats the remainder of the trip had to be a little slower to prevent Inaki's stomach contents ending up in Thea's car. The weather changed more and more, the closer we came to Cradle Mountain. A slight drizzle did not deter the climbers and with great determination we started conquering Marions Lookout. Admiring the view from there as much as we could, regained our strength and slogged-on towards Cradle Mountain. The amount of snow was fascinating and a "snowball war" could not be prevented by the leaders of the Pack. Eventually we arrived at Kitchen Hutt for a short lunch break under a musical background produced by Inaki on his ukulele. However, the weather was not kind to us and there was not enough time left for the six-hour climb to the top and back. Alas, subdued we had to return back to the car park in order to be back in Launceston at 6 pm. Stiff and sore but happy with this great achievement.

We have to do this again when the sun is with us all the way.

Henk

THE FOUR-WAY TEST

Of the things we think, say or do:

1. Is it the truth?
2. Is it fair to all involved?
3. Will it build goodwill and better friendships?
4. Will it be beneficial to all concerned?
